"A Man Who Cannot Be Happy Though Single Would Not Be if He Had Solomon's Harem," Writes a Cos Cob Philosopher, Who Adds: "Happy People Are Born So, Kings or Beggars."

IT IS A STATE OF MIND AMONG OTHER THINGS.

"The Man Who Loves the One Woman All His Lifetime and Endeavors to Make a Happy Home Is a Martyr," Says "Charles E." Who Defines Love as a Kind of Machine.

last words, "I die happy" are not a mere phrase. Any one who utters them believes them and makes them true. But let the philosopher speak for himself, for truly he has found the secret of true happiness. Here it is:

ONLY WAY TO BE HAPPY IS TO BE BORN HAPPY.

Dear Madam: A happy home would be like Frederick the Great's idea of a constitutional monarchy: the wife (the people) would be privileged to say what she liked, and the husband (the King) would be allowed to do what he liked. If this fails to solve the problem, let each remember that happiness does not depend upon anything external, such as riches, station, etc., nor even upon the possession of a husband or wife. It is not objective but subjective. In short, it is a state of mind. A man who cannot be happy though single, would not be if he had Solomon's harem. Happy people are born so, whether kings or beggars. Perhaps the best recipe for happiness is a good digestion and a bad heart. If you are not born happy there is only one place where happiness can always be found, namely, in the dictionary!

"Happy people are born so whether kings or beggars"—and it doesn't make very much difference which—and in my opinion happiness is hereditary. If "a star descended" when your great-grandmother was born I believe you are far more apt to be happy than if you are descended from a Chinaman. Hereditarily, as most of us understand it, is, of course, merely a convenient explanation of our neighbors' virtues and our own sins—and most of us want more credit than we deserve for the serenity of our spirits. But it is really much easier to leave your children a hoard of happiness than to bequeath them a heritage of interest-bearing bonds.

Happiness is really only a sense of perspective as applied to life. I imagine the old are really much happier than the young whose dreams and imaginations have all the charm and all the faults of an old Japanese print, which has no perspective at all.

It is true, too, that a good digestion is absolutely essential to happiness. We know that the Greeks believed that the stomach is the seat of the soul. So an optimist is merely one whose spirit soars victorious over corned beef and cabbage, while a pessimist succumbs to trips and onions.

Happiness does exist outside the dictionary, however, for those who know how to spell it. It's a pity so many persons are poor spellers. Here is the orthography of happiness according to a contented wife. She writes:

MARRIED, BUT HAPPY BECAUSE SHE GETS ALL THE MONEY.

Dear Madam: I would like to give my views, being a happily married girl. The money question causes a great many quarrels. In my case my husband gives me every cent and I save all I can. Then we buy clothes or spend money on amusements out of this common fund. Neither of us ever goes out without the other, and we go out only occasionally. In a happy home neither one should be boss; both should talk over any matter that may come up and arrive at a mutual agreement. Each should try to please the other, without, however, being too humble; but with the proper amount of independence, and make a happy home. One must meet intolerance with kindness; one must bear with misunderstanding, by ill-tempered, ill-mated, fatigued wives and husbands and children who are naturally imperfect. Knowledge, common sense, equality and overflowing love are the foundation of a happy home. What is "love"? A gravity centre of harmonious thoughts, as polarity of all other forces, centrifugal and centripetal, cause and effect, action and reaction, life, nature. This is "love".

CHARLES E.

Dear Madam: The man who loves the one woman all his lifetime and endeavors to make a happy home is a martyr. The most difficult problem in all life's experience is to when some little quarrel arises neither should be too proud to be the first to say the softening word.

A HAPPY WIFE.

And now let us give the pessimist the right of way. I hope he will read the letter of J. S. and cheer up. He says:

LOVE IS A FEARFUL AND WONDERFUL THING.

J. D. JR.'S CLASS SCORNS FIRE

Blaze Near Church Doesn't Disturb Rockefeller Bible Students.

Members of John D. Rockefeller Jr.'s Bible class were attending services in the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church last night when a puff of smoke blew into the edifice. The worshippers showed no alarm and the Rev. Cornelius West-kin, the pastor, who was conducting the services, did not stop. A moment later Frank Guenther, the sexton, notified the pastor that there was a fire in the unoccupied house at No. 10 West Forty-sixth street, which adjoins the church, and the pastor told the class. There was no excitement at all and the services were finished. Then the class hurried out to the fire. The blaze was soon smothered.

Any store could buy the large quantity of gowns, wraps and suits included in this extraordinary presentation.

But only a store with the outlet of Wanamaker's in two great cities could sell such a quantity quickly.

For the very reason that we can sell these garments at once without interfering with our regular stocks and service—the prices are brought down to less than wholesale; the manufacturers in one deal turned their stocks into money and were free to go again to Paris or turn to the creation of new things.

The Paris Gowns

These are from one of the greatest and wisest importers of European fashions in this country.

He searches Europe many times each year. He is making ready now to sail within a few days in order to gather fashions for early Southern wear.

The 82 models that he turned over to us are hand-made gowns of chiffons and satins which by their loveliness and exquisite daintiness appeal to the most cultivated taste.

Blues so soft in tone that they can hardly be called blue. Pink, the shade of an ocean shell. The delicate bloom of an orchid and all the other soft evening colors.

The Evening Gowns Inspired by Paris Fashions

Thirty styles, including brocades, charmeuse, white and colored satin, lace and marquisette and chiffon draped satin gowns ornamented with rhinestones and pearls.

They come from one of the greatest operators on women's costumes in all America. In the quantity of the materials for which he contracts direct from the mills, and in his great importations of embroideries, laces, velvets and embroidered tunics no other manufacturer in this country approaches his orders.

Absolutely every model that we received earlier from this manufacturer has been sold and not one remains in stock.

It is quite a privilege, therefore, to get these to sell now for $29.50 to $75, instead of $40 to $115.

French Evening Wraps

Forty evening coats of brocaded velvet, the fashionable plush in sulphur, ruby red, cream white and other marvelous French colors, also the new moire in colors and white.

Majority are trimmed with fur.

The Tailored Suits After Bernard Models

They have a different story to tell.

The original model was imported direct by ourselves.

It was so successful—both in Paris and here—that we set at work to reproduce it at the very lowest possible price for our Golden October Special.

By co-operation with the manufacturer we can now offer

—the $45 and $52 Suits for $29.50
—the $57 Suits for $37.50

The $29.50 are diagonal chevrot; the $37.50 are corduroy and velveteen.

Both are made with a cutaway coat long in the back and short in the front; trimmed with silk collar edged with velvet and either with braid ornaments or with long satin button-holes and braid covered buttons.

The Great Golden Special in Dress Fabrics Monday

The Entire Stock of $2.50 and $3 Worumbo Broadcloth at $1.55 Yard

Because the Manufacturer for Technical Reasons Is Discontinuing These Qualities

Four superb broadcloths are included in this purchase, which will be offered at the same time in both our stores, New York and Philadelphia.

In addition to black, the colors include all the many street shades now used for limousine wraps, tailored suits, walking coats, luncheon and afternoon dresses and young girls' clothes. The name "WORUMBO" has stood for many years on fabrics for that which Sterling stands on silver.

This is the first time, we believe, that Worumbo broadcloth of these qualities has ever been offered for less than $2.50 a yard; nearly three-quarters of the lot has never been sold for less than $3 a yard.

Worumbo fabrics will continue to be woven—just as fine as they are now—but these special $2.50 and $3 grades of Worumbo broadcloth will be discontinued, and these are the fabrics we are now privileged exclusively to sell for $1.55 yard.

Every yard of Worumbo broadcloth of these grades that remained in the makers' stock-room is included in the sale.

There will be no duplicates of these qualities after this lot is exhausted.

Begins Monday, the Wanamaker Sale of Leather Library Furniture

Offering $30,000 Worth of Genuine Leather Furniture for $22,500

Recent newspaper articles announcing that leather furniture is growing more popular in America, stated at the same time that American leather furniture is deteriorating; that the market is being flooded with inferior products.

Both statements are correct. But speaking for Wanamaker leather furniture, the facts assure the public that there is one place, at least, where leather furniture that is genuine, and true, and honest and of high quality may be procured.

This truth will be demonstrated to all who come to the store Monday.
